Echoes From Greenleaf School

We look with pride at the new addition to our school and with hearts full of appreciation and gratitude we wish to thank our Superintendent, Mr. Ray Armstrong and the W. P. A. for making this addition possible.

At the close of the first Semester an exhibit of all the work of the children was on display, in the school auditorium. This Culmination received much praise and was a Symbol of the fine workmanship on the part of the children.

The Parents of the P. T. A. in order to raise money for the Bus Project staged a play entitled "How Home Mission Came to Helep." The amount raised from this play was $8.60. This amount was turned over to the treasurer. At this time we wish to thank our parents for their splendid cooperation.

On Monday night, May 17, our annual school closing took place in the form of a Japanese Operetta, entitled "O Cho San." At this time Walter Thompson was awarded the Pilot's Medal for having the highest Scholarship and deportment. Claud Yelverton received the School prize for being the most useful boy.

The school year 1936-37 has passed with great success and we look forward to the coming year with hopes for a brighter and better year.

AN APPRECIATION

The class of '37 is about to mount the last round of the ladder that can be attained at Dillard. We are sorry to go but yet when we think of the duty that is calling us on we cannot help but rejoice. Maybe we have not done our best, but if there are any mistakes that we have made, we hope that the following classes will profit by them.

Our teachers dear have followed us to the last step and we have them to thank for it. We thank them and cherish them for all they've done for us.

We cannot thank only our high school teachers for this was not the beginning. From the time we entered school, we were looked after, guided and pushed on to higher heights. Well do we remember how we did not like to come to school and how our primary teachers coached us and told us of the better things. We thank them all. Then comes the time for our grammar grade days. How we did love to play. But that was not all. Some work had to be carried on. Our dear old grammar grade teachers were burdened with a load of care for us that inspired us on to do our best. We did not like some of their scoldings but now we see it all. They knew that we were only boys and girls and that we would care in the future.

Listen! We hear music. At last we are marching down the aisle for 7th grade commencement day. This means better boys and girls; more work and less play. The march is over, then the program ended. We rise to march out once more. Do we feel like young men and women? This is going to be the life we think. But nay, it is the same as before. Guidance and more guidance. When you, our teachers, told us the correct steps to take we sometimes lost our heads. We regret all the mean things we did and thank you for keeping us going in the straight path that has led us thus far. We listened to you sometimes with the thought in our minds of doing just the opposite to your teaching. Many of us have failed from time to time for that very reason. Now the light has come when we see things clearly and know just why you did not quit. We acknowledge that you have suffered long that we might sip just a taste of the things of life.

And now to our loving principal who has been a gallant leader for us since our first day here, there is an appreciation for your help. Daily we have heard you say, "Try and make a hundred," or "Don't be like that old mule." It was fun to walk the halls or sigh at your speeches in chapel. We've been called to the principal's office for cutting class or not going to chapel and probably given a good talking.

Then we did not realize the good being done for us but now we see it all. You have done your part in helping us reach this goal. We are about to march for the last time down the aisle that will lead us on to the duty that is calling us afar.

To the teachers of the school system we thank you, for we know that you were willing to give us any advice necessary.

Again we thank you all. Graduation day is the saddest day for seniors, yet it is the happiest.

Teachers and principal of Dillard High School we have not words to express our appreciation to you. As in the word of Ibid, "That which we acquire with the most difficulty we retain longest."

The History of the Class

By MILDRED SPENCER

On the 17th of September 1933, I met over a hundred classmates at Union Station, tickets in hand, all ready to board the trains for freshmanland. The train arriving on time, all members were seen hustling toward the empty seats laughing and shouting with glee with the thoughts of their journey. Thus 140 first entered this class of distinction. Prior to the dates no member ever held such a position of importance. In spite of the mockery and scorn we received from the other classes of the school on board this train with us, we joined together in an earnest persistent effort to keep our own seats and reach success.

Well do we, members of that strange rough and tiresome railroad journey remember one passenger, one clad in chapel, a member of the faculty, whose flowing hair told one to be aware of the love! We passengers feared Miss Hatcher for her name it was, although we feared Miss Gray the more, another strong passenger, who persisted in our history class having unity. We soon won the respect and honor of our fellow travelers by being the first class to support the Declamatory Contest. But glad were the hearts of the passengers when our Conductor Mr. Brown came through the car shouting "Vacation Station" off we piled to join friends and parents elsewhere for 4 whole carefree months.

The next year as sophomores we boarded the train. But this year we were allowed to take the empty seats of the third class car instead of those of the fourth. This year another honor was bestowed upon our faithful class for winning the banner attendance, six months out of eight. Since our class was divided into two divisions Edmund Gordon and Johnie Belle Spencer served as president. We did not have many things to participate in, nothing but that history class under Miss Gray, that was enough for us. We grew along slowly waiting for our next year to come knowing that we would be jolly juniors, Miss Boney and Mr. Pickett slowly driving on with us.

The fall of 1935 found us again on board the train all fresh and bright from our three months rest, this year another honor was bestowed upon our faithful band. Miss Frances Oakley took part in the finals of the triangular Debates. We were jolly juniors now but our class had dropped to the number of about ninety. The officers were as follows:

President	Harold Tate
Secretary	Laura Holt
Asst. Secretary	Ida Worrells
Treasurer	Edmund Gordon

This year we entertained the seniors at the Junior and Senior Prom. Our entertainment was in the form of a ship which sailed at eight o'clock sharp, with everyone on board with our president as captain.

We also sponsored the Junior Play, entitled "Nobody's Darling". There were a number of Juniors who participated in the Junior Oratorical Contest, they were Alice Oakley, Naomi Carter, Inez Davis, Annie Lee Moore, Gloria Bostic, Albert Pearsall

Senior Class

Alice Oakly won first prize and Albert Pearsal won second. Elizabeth Arrington won the Popularity Contest and a trip to Washington, D. C. Then it was that our few faithful passengers realized that our last "Vacation" was nearer. This was the strangest vacation ever.

On September 5th the passengers were more than anxious to board the train the last time. This time in the first class car. This year our class was combined, the first thing that looked us in the face was those History Exams by Mr. Brown. We won many honors this year, first our candidate in the Miss Dillard Contest was crowned Miss Dillard. We had the highest percentage in the Parents Teacher's meeting. Walter Undrewood, Edmund Gordon, and Luther Galloway are the only students that Mr. Brown will allow to use the Memographing Machine.

This year our senior play was given entitled "New Fires". During our Senior year the triangular debate was held which was composed of 4 Seniors and Juniors. The Seniors were:

Laura Holt, Albert Pearsall, Ida Worrells, and James Williams.

The debate was held in Raleigh, N. C., and Wilmington, N. C.

The Dramatic Club under the directions of Miss Rosa Gray presented "Nat Turner" with James Williams having the Leading role. The play was given in Rocky Mount, where Dillard Hi School Dramatic Club won second place.

The majority of the Glee Club members are seniors with Essie Edwards and Frances Oakley, James Williams, Oscar Wooten having leading parts.

At this time there are seventy six passengers in number, the same people serving as officers, Misses Boney and Riggsbee our conductors.

Yet we leave to those dear passengers following in our footsteps to take our empty seats the thought, that there is no more joy in taking a journey to senior land, even though sweat may be spent, and toes stubbed, in going from the fourth class car to the first class than in aimlessly catching our feet under the wheel that leads to failure.

CLASS SONG

Composed by Julia Mae Jones and Annie Pearl Smith

I

Dillard High it grieves us so
 To say farewell to you
 Out in the world we go
 To start our tasks not few.

II

But now the time has come for
 Us to depart from you
 And we are sorry too
 From the depths of our hearts so true.

Chorus

Now we are all filled with gloom
 We'll miss our school days
 That ended too soon.

III

We hate to leave our school
 Where we did love to dwell
 So we will say farewell
 Dear Dillard High farewell.

Facts About School Street School

By MISS S. M. FAUCETTE

School Street School is very old.
There are traditions we're told.
It's the site of the normal taught by Miss Daw,
In the days gone by when buildings were rare,
Each child in town its roof did share.
As time moved on and progress grew,
Each new school, School Street, is a branch from you.
Our enrollment this year is seven hundred forty-nine.
In daily attendance the other schools lagged behind.
Tho' the walls are old and the building not fine,
Our fellowship and cooperation are genuine.
